NEIL DISHEARTENED OVER BOWKER'S WIN.

Bantam Champion Returns to Nev Methods Handicapped Him.

Frankie Neil, the bantam champion of this country, who went down to defeat before Jem Bowker in England, was an extremely disconsolate youngster when he reached New York last week. Although it had been ten days since his battle with Bowker, Neil still showed the effects of punishment when he landed in Gotham. Neil, of course, was bitter against the referee, and claimed that the official gave alm no chance to try his boring-in tactic and his slugging at close range. As this system is diametrically opposed to the British idea of what constitutes fighting case was hopeless at the end of the eighth round, when the referee notified him that he must stop hitting when Bowker laid his hands on Frankle's shoulder, or came close enough to have his position interpreted as a clinch.

Neil admitted that Bowker is a tough customer of his own weight, and that at the straight boxing game he can hold his own nicely. This bears out the remarks made by Fitzgerald in these columns Monday anent the improvement in the British style of boxing.

What has caused friends of Neil more anxlety than any other point is the punishment Frankle received around the eyes in the battle. His optics were badly cut and swollen in the fight, and he has found it necessary to wear dark glasses ever since to protect his eyes from the glare of the sun.

There is some talk of bringing Neil here for a battle. The Friese box hes are Herrera is still extremely sore over his defeat by Kid Goodman in this city last summer, and by the fact that some criticism followed the calling off of a bout in Goodman for October 24, at Butte, Mont. Speaking on the latter point, to a sporting writer in Chicago, he stated that he was in no trim to fight at all, but that he intended to visit West Baden Springs in the near future and to fight any and all comers immediately after that. He says that he forfeited 1250 by calling off the match with Goodman and that he is anxious to get this back.

It looks as if Wille should manage to make a fair sort of showing against O'Brien in the six rounds for which the fight is scheduled. Wille has an immense advantage in weight, and it hardly seems as if O'Brien can put him away in the speedy fashion in which he disposed of Twin Sullivan here.

Wille has some of the properties of Mike Schreck in the fighting way, his ability to absorb punishment being particularly pronounced. It looks as though he should make a fair sort of exhibition, if the bout comes off as per schedule.

An effort is being made to bring these teams together at the Stadium next week. There seems to be some misunderstanding on both sides as to the date on which this game was to have been played. They surely will play, as this was one of the scheduled Interscholastic League series, and if both sides claim the victory there surely will be trouble.

Stuttle, the quarter back of Washington was out again for practice yesterday. He is fast rounding into shape, and, although he has a severe cold, thinks he will be again playing his old game. Some say that he caught this cold as a result of not wearing his cap in the last two games. Walter Krause and Fritz Lehmann were out in uniform yesterday. The latter played in part of the Texas game last Saturday and has fully recovered his strength,

He and Krause will probably be in the game with Missouri next Saturday at the Stadium, Walter at full and Fritz at one of the halves.

Cassell is still on the shelf, and it is not Cassell is still on the shelf, and it is not known when he will return to the game. His loss is not exactly sorely felt, as Boynton has a good player at center in Stone. When Cassell was taken out of the game last Saturday this fellow was put in and performed equally as well as the captain. The latter's passing has been rather poor, and while Stone is not quite as heavy as Cassell, he passes better.

Followers of the game want Washington to oppose St. Louis next Tuesday at the Stadium. The former players say that they will not be in the best of shape by that time after playing Missouri, but if they choose it is almost certain that Chief Sullivan of the Physical Culture Depart ment would postpone the game for a few days or a week.

Many think that Washington is afraid of St. Louis, but this is not so. Boynton has a team that should give De.aney's men a good battle, and it is safe to say that the result would not be by many points in favor of either side.

C. B. C. players say that as long a Washington does not want to play St. Louis there is little hope of them clashing with the myrtle and maroon eleven

The Cote Brilliants eleven has done enough this season against heavier and better teams to allow itself to be classed with the city's best, and Chief Sullivan of the World's Fair should allow them to enter in the championship.

If this be done there would be a game next Tuesday, even though Washington refused to play. It would bring together C. B. C. and St. Louis, which many think would be an interesting contest.

YALE PRACTICE GRUELING.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL, New Haven, Conn., Nov. 1.—All the Yale men who played against Columbia were back in working harness again to-day, and in good shape. Hogan, Bloomer, Morse and McCoy did not take part in the scrimmage, but were uninjured Saturday. Mackey and P. Turner took the 'varsity tackle positions to-day, and, with Kineen, are now the first substitutes for the line. The secret practice was easy, but in the open half the scrubs were lined up against the regulars and managed to drive them back about fifty yards toward their own goal by punts and line bucking, fifteen of which were on straight line plays.

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 1.-As was predicted, Walter Randall of St. Louis, a member of the Harvard football squad, has "reconsidered" his determination not to play again. At 2 o'clock this morning the Harvard correspondents of the Boston papers were supplied with a statement signed by Randall saying that he had no intention of quitting the football squad and should return "as soon as possible."

The conference with Randall lasted far into the night and his statement was the outcome.

MUST HAVE LETTER TO BAVARIAN COURT.

Countess Spottiswood Mackin Canno Act as Patroness Until Duly Presented.

Philadelphia, Nov. 1-Counters Spottisrood Mackin is at the Hotel Walton awaiting the arrival of Charlemagne Tower, the American Ambassador to Germany, to whom she has been referred by President Roosevelt for the straightening out of a little diplomatic tangle that has arisen over the appointment of the Countess as patroness of the Passion play at Fair yesterday to Baron Hellendorff of Austria for $100.

The canvas, which has been much admired by World's Fair visitora, is remarkable in that it was painted by a 17-year-old artist, Miss Lucy Snyder. The painting which has hung in the assembly room of the Indian school building since the opening of the Exposition, has been one of the most-talked-of pictures at the World's Fair. It is a bust picture of an old chieftain in war bonnet and associate trappings. The next production will be given next summer and the Countess has been requested to act as patroness of this festival and the largest house in the village has been placed at her disposal in which she is to receive the royal visitors. In order to act as hostess, the custom of the country provides that the Countess must first be formally presented at the Bavarian Court. As the United States has no representative at this court a pretty diplomatic question has arisen, upon which the Countess has been consulting the President and officers of the State Department.

The Countess hopes to obtain from Ambassador Tower a letter that will pave the way for her presentation at the Bavarian Court. The next production will be given next way for her presentation at the Bavarian Court.

The Countess sails for Europe next week and hopes to be in Paris for a big charity fair to be given for the benefit of the widows and orphans of the ancient officers of the Legion of Honor. The decoration of that order has been asked for her by the officers.

James M. Watson Is Said to Have Wandered to This City for Fair Employment.

James M. Watson, a former Christian minister of Sewickley, Ala., who has been missing for nearly a year, is being sought by relatives in St. Louis. Overwork and hard study, it is said, caused his mind to become affected a few years ago, in consequence of which he resigned his pastorate and later became a commercial traveler.

He enlisted in the regular army at St Joseph, Mo., in 1991, and was sent to the Philippine Islands. Ill health caused him to be returned to the United States about one year ago. He was confined at the hospital in San Francisco for several months, during which time he frequently wrote home, keeping his parents informed as to his condition.

Upon his discharge he informed his people that he intended to accept a position in St. Louis, and since then all traces of him have been lost. His brother is of the opinion that he may be found at the Fair.

Mr. Watson is described as being 35 years old, of rather small stature and of light complexion. He was known for his deeply religious sentiments, and his brother is of the opinion that he may be engaged in some missionary enterprise in this city. Both his father and mother are still alive, residing at Sewickley, and are anxiously awaiting some news from their son.

the rapidity that makes trap shooting difficult sport for experts.

Strangely enough, Doctor Ellis Duncan of Louisville, Ky., who tied in the "missout" contest, had the ill fortune to encounter most of the spirited pigeons, and on nearly every one of the twenty birds he landed he had to use his second barrel. In the miss-out shoot very few of the birds secaped uninjured, but many fell out of bounds.

It was on one of these strong-winged pigeons that W. H. Crosby of O'Fallon, Ill., considered one of the greatest living-trap shots, scored a miss.

Mr. Crosby landed his twentieth bird, but it managed to flutter outside of the pickets before it hit the ground, and Crosby had to leave the field in favor of Occior Ellis Duncan of Louisville and Fd O'Brien of Florence, Kas. The pair split the money after killing their twentieth bird.

Pounds. San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 1 .- Al Hereford, manager for Joe Gans, the champion light-weight pugilist, said to-day: "If Britt will fight Gans at Baltimore my club will hang up a purse of $15.000, and if Britt will meet Gans at 134 ringside, I will give him a side bet of $2.500. and he can split the purse 60 and 40 if he "I have always contended that Gans can and I am still of this belief. I will take J. Frank Hanley, candidate for Governor, Graney for referee or Britt can have sometinued."

Referring to his failure to win the champlonship, Britt said:
"The decision was fair. I could not help it. Gans kept slipping to the floor without being struck. He also kept hanging onto me and I had to fight him off. I went in to win and in my opinion I would have knocked Gans out had the fight continued." Hough estimates of the gate receipts of the Gans-Britt fight piace the amount at about $35,000. The puglists will equally divide their share, according to previous agreement, Britt to receive 50 per cent in the event of losing, and 75 per cent if a winner.

LOCAL SPORTS ACCEPT BOUT.

Followers of Pugilism Believe Gans Britt Fight Was Straight. the opinion of local sporting men. who have watched Jimmy Britt in action. the opinion prevailed generally yesterday that the San Francisco fighter was too excitable in his match with Gans and ry him away when he struck the negro. For the most part, the fight followers here are inclined to discredit the reports of any fake in connection with the fight.

of any fake in connection with the fight. These rumors were emanating from certain circles in Frisco yesterday, but devotees of the sport here believe that there was no ground to them.

"What object could there have been in a fake?" asked Tom Cobett yesterday. "betting was so light on the fight that neither man could have profited thereby. Rumors of trickery hurt one participant as much as another and would have taken away any credit the winner might attain. Where is he to gain anything, in that case, by throwing the public down? I think the fight was absolutely on the level."

that case, by throwing the public down? I think the fight was absolutely on the level."

"Britt was overanxious to win," said Charley Haughton, "and I don't see where there is any cause for criticism of the go. Britt would have died before he would have let himself be beaten by a man he had pweviously refused to meet on the ground of color. I think that he became fairly frenzied with excitement, when he saw that he had Gans going, and that he went in to win in a hurry. He probably lost his head completely and only thought of putting Gans away as quickly as possible."

Jack McKenna, Johnny Regan, Bob Douglass, Frank Lippe and other followers of the sport scout the idea of there being a fake, regardless of talk to that effect.
